

NO 851

Miscellaneous

Constance Hervey's Suitors.
THE STOLEN BANK NOTES

The newspapers of 18--- contain a few brief paragraphs---cold, bare, and partial as a tombstone, relative to a singular and, to my thinking, instructive passage in the domestic annals of the country, with which I happened to be intimately acquainted. The impression it produced on me at the time was vivid and profound, and a couple of lines in a late Liverpool journal, early announcing the death of a Madame L'Estrange, recalled each incident as freshly to memory as if graven here but yesterday; and, moreover, induced me to pen the following narrative, in which, now that I can do so without the risk of giving pain or offence to any one, I have given the whole affair, divested of coloring, disguise, or concealment.

My father, who had influence with the late Lord Buxley, then Mr. Vanittart, procured me, three weeks after I came of age, a junior clerkship in one of the best paid of our Government offices. In the same department were two young men, my seniors by six or seven years out, of the names Martin Travers and Edward Capel. Their salaries were the same---three hundred pounds a year---and both had equal chance for promotion to the vacancy likely soon to occur, either by death or superannuation of Mr. Oswald, an aged and ailing chief clerk. I had known them slightly before I entered the office, inasmuch as families visited in the same society, and we were very soon especially intimate with each other. They were, and, in fact friends, though differing greatly in character and temperament. I liked Martin Travers much the best of the two. He was a kind-one, a well grown frank spoken, generous man and never have I known a person so full of buoyant life as he---a temper so constantly gay and cheerful. Capel was of a graver, more serious disposition, with lines about the mouth indicative of iron inflexibility of nerve and will; yet withal a hearty nature, quite up to his income, if not to his exerting considerably over.

and not been more than about three miles in the office, when a marked change was perceptible in both. Gradually they had become cold, distant,
at last utterly estranged from each other; and it was suggested by several
of us that jealousy as to who should succeed to Roswell's snug salary of six hundred a year might have affected the evidently but feeling between them. This night, I thought,
generated the lowering cloud
of glooming and thickening upon his brow, but could scarcely account for the change in Martin Tra-ville. He whose contagious gaiety
to render dullness and ill-humor
in his presence, was now moody, irascible; his daily tasks no longer gone through with the cheerful alacrity; and finally—for he was morbidly impatient of being slandered—I jumped to the conclusion that from some half words heard, and partly from knowing that they both occasionally visited—
the subtle influence which from the eyes of Helen downwards—and I went upwards—was pleased and displeased mankind, was at the bottom of the matter. I was quite right, and was not long waiting for.

walking early one evening peacefully with Travers—who d, by-the-by, to wish me further, though he was too polite to say when we came suddenly upon I caught his arm, and insisted should take a turn with us to do. I thought that possible word or two on the beauty of the kindly brotherhood men might lead to a better between them. I was deuceally n. My efforts in that line—dily enough made, I dare say—utterly abortive. Capel, injured back, rather than as I d, fassibly persist in going on; he and Travers strode on as a grenadiers on parade, their flushed, their eyes afloat with motion, and abog their sullen age as bears. What seemed, when Travers turned sharply within a short distance of Hyde rner, with a scarcely disguised of snaking us off, Capel ound us quickly, as if quite ately determined not to be off; while I, considerably by the result of the pacific I had ventured upon, did, of re some. We stalked on in d just as we reached Hobbs's, r Hervey, with his daughter s, turned suddenly out of St. eet. I was very hot to the ears in an instant. Travers ed stopped abruptly, stared ch other, and barely re-

[illegible]

had not been more than about three months in the office, when a marked
change was perceptible in both. Gradually they had become cold, distant,
at last utterly estranged from each
other; and it was suggested by several
of us that jealousy as to who

of six hundred a year might have need the evidently bad feeling be-them. This night, I thought,

generated the lowering cloud
y darkening and thickening upon b's brow, but could scarcely ac-
for the change in Martin Tra-

He whose contagious gaiety
to render dullness and ill-humor
sible in his presence, was now mody, irascible; his daily tasks
no longer came through with the

...ranger game through with the cheerful alacrity; and finally—for
 as morbidly impatient of being bored—I jumped to the conclusion partly from some half words

ed, and partly from knowing they both occasionally visited—
the subtle influence which from the days of Helen downwards—and I upwards—has pleased and mankind, was at the bottom matter. I was quite right, and was not long waited for.

is walking early one evening Piccadilly with Travers—who d, by-the-by, to wish me furough he was too polite to say

I caught his arm, and insisted should take a turn with us as to do. I thought that possinet word or two on the beauty ellence of kindly brotherhood men might lead to a better between them. I was deucedly

n. My efforts in that line

...my efforts in that line—
fully enough made, I dare say—utterly abortive. Capel, in-turned back, rather than as I did, possibly persist in going on:

he and Travers strode on as grenadiers on parade, their flushed, their eyes aight with motion, and altogether sullen.

age as bears. What seemed to him, when Travers turned sharply within a short distance of Hyde corner, with a scarcely disguised round us quickly, as if quite ately determined not to be off; while I, considerably by the result of the

I had ventured upon, did, of course. We stalked on in the fog as we reached Hoby's, and I saw with his daughter

...turned suddenly out of St. ...
...I was very hot to the ...
...cars in an instant. Travers ...
...el stopped abruptly, stared

each other, and barely re-

makers will be present.

Letterica.

CONSOLIDATE

Lotteries of Delaware.
For May, 1899.
— 0 —
FRANCE; BROADBENTS & CO.,
MANAGERS
— 0 —
All drawings under the super-intendence of the Lottery Commissioners.
Prizes paid up soon as drawn.
GRAND DELAWARE LOTTERY
ON THE MAYANA PLAN.
Extra CASH PRIZE.
To be drawn in Wilmington, Del., Monday
May 30 1899.
25,305 Prizes. 60,000 Numbers!
Prizes payable in full, without deduction
In those Lotteries every Prize is drawn.

SCHEDULE.

1 prize of	$50,000
1 prize of	25,000
1 prize of	10,000
2 prizes of	5,000

of
of

10 prizes of	800
10 prizes of	600
10 prizes of	400
100 prizes of	200
25,000 prizes of	100

And 164 Approximations prizes ranging from $20 up to $700.

25,305 prizes amounting to $340,000

Whole tickets $10; halves $5; quarters $2 50

MAGNIFICENT SCHEME.

GRAND CAPITAL PRIZE $70,000.

Grand Consolidated Lottery of D. L. Ware, Class I.

to be drawn in Wilmington, Del., Saturday, May 28, 1853.

SPLENDID SCHEME.

1 Prize	$70,000	$70,000
1 "	28,000	28,000
1 "	12,300	24,600
2 "	10,000	20,000
4 "	7,500	30,000
4 "	5,000	20,000
4 "	4,000	16,000
4 "	2,500	10,000
19 "	1,000	19,000
60 "	500	30,000
66 "	600	39,600
132 "	200	26,400
132 "	100	13,200

40
20

39,310 prizes, amounting to $1,292,000
Prizes
 Halves $10, Quarters $5.00, High 15 $2.50
 A Package of 20 Whole Tickets at $20,
 costs $5 0,
 there are 12 drawn ballots, and
 each ballot being worth $2 1, makes $240
 5 per cent. off, being 36

Leaves net 84

Leaving risk to the purchaser $36 Persons who desire need only remit the risk on a package or which we will send a certificate as follows :

Certificate of Package of 26 Wholes,
 costs $390 00
 Do. do. of 26 Halves, 138 75
 Do. do. of 26 Quarters, 69 37 1/2

do. of 26
rs addressed to F

nts & Co., Wilmington, Del., will act with prompt attention, and the printed circulars, sent as soon as over.

FRANCE, BROADBENTS & CO.,
a26—1m Managers.

HOUSEKEEPING GOODS.—Blankets, Unbleached Danish, Turkish and Muslin Counterpanes, 1 Handful Quilted Table-covers, Napkins, Doyles Towels, Leached and Unleached Ruckersberg Dish, Scotch Dish, &c. &c. at a21 J. H. HANNETTS, 58 Thames st.

HE CODDINGTON FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.—A dividend of 3

and 11-2 per cent

at have been in for three months, is declared
the Trustees of the Coddington First City Savings Bank of Newport, payable on and after this day, April 20th, 1899.

221 CHAIRS—L. White, Treasurer.

NEW SIKES—at WM. C. COZZAR & CO.'S. The largest and most elegant assortment of Dress Sikes ever offered in Newport are now open, and for sale very cheap. Choice patterns in Cheire, Bypare, and Plaid, added this week. 221

"OR RENT," he "Roummainer house" on Touro street, uniminished, or for season of year. Also, the mansion house at the head of the Main, belonging to the late Levi H. Gale. The house is the late Levi H. Gale. The house is well furnished, and will be a reasonable rate. 221

ALFRED

FINE Apples—Fresh—at
 a21 R. WILSON'S.
 BET Potatoes—Prime—at
 a21 R. WILSON'S.
 ORSETS—A great variety of French courses, for sale by C. W. TUCKER,
 22 126 Thames St.
 LACK Lace Veils, at
 C. W. TUCKER'S, 126 Thames.
 USE Papers—WM. G. CUZZENS &

and prices, some v

beautiful styles, opened this week. At some cheap and handsome Gift and Window Shades. 327

GH1 Drapes and Checks on Mechanics' Banking Association, New York, in
is to suit. S. E. TILLEY.

TEACHER Wanted for School District
No. 6. One well qualified with discipline in location and be suitably recommended. STOCKFORD E. TILLEY, Middletown, April 22. Trustee.

LD and Good Java Coffee—Two hundred large bags for sale; a very choice cheap in cash, or approved notes.
S. E. TILLEY.

OCHA Coffee—In bales, halves and quarters, for sale by S. E. TILLEY.

ANANA—Red and Yellow, at
R. WILSON'S.

APPLE Sugar—at R. WILSON'S,
79 Thames st.

CHOICE brands family flour this day is received at SAYERS, 237 Thames-st.

LOUR—10 bbls. Richmond City Mills
four, equal to any four in the market,
or sale at less price than of same quality day received at

WEEDENS, 16 market sq.

SEL SPRING SKIRTS—30 Springs at
J. H. HANNETS, 93 Thames st.

W GOODS—Parasols, Veils, Mitts.

rs, Sleeves &c. &c.
MMP'S, 93 Thann

ENCH FERT HATS—Just received a fine assortment of French felt Hats at James St. JACOB WEAVER.

U.S.—The Hall now occupied by the Accountants' Society. Apply to H. BULL.

HATS. Hats! Hats!—Gentlemen! A lot of ten different styles, now open for sale, and for sale low at 14 Thackeray St.
JACOB WEAVER.

HATS! Caps! Caps!—Just received, a lot of fifty different styles of caps for gentlemen, youths and children.